

Portland design firm lands work in Beaverton

by DJC Staff

Published: January 25th, 2008

Bainbridge, a Portland design, space planning and project management firm, has grabbed several state and local agency contracts.

For the city of Portland, the firm is conducting space analysis for City Hall and consulting on two facilities for the Bureau of Environmental Services. As part of an open-ended contract with Portland Public Schools, the firm is also finishing several consolidation projects.

The firm's doing another space planning and analysis for Beaverton's City Hall, as well as working with the Beaverton Library on modifications to its children's wing.

For Marion County, the firm is the project manager for a four-floor remodel project of the county's Courthouse Square Building.

As a sub-consultant to Scott Edwards Architecture, Bainbridge also just wrapped a long range facility space analysis for Washington County.

Complete URL: <http://djcoregon.com/news/2008/01/25/portland-design-firm-lands-work-in-beaverton/>